is porous and extremely sensitive. It is constantly exuding moisture, which should be promptly taken up and sent out gradually to the open air. If this is not done, some of the poisonous matter will be re-absorbed and constitute a serious menace to health.

Hence it is of the greatest importance to wear next to the skin Under Clothing as will best perform the duty of taking up and carrying away what nature throws off. The more thoroughly this is done the more comfortable one will be. The manner of putting the material together has much to do with the quality of service a garment will render. OUR Underclothing is made on purely Hygienic and scientific principles and the buyer has "Our Word" for it that he will obtain the greatest amount of comfort and service for the least outlay of money.

Is your Underclothing satisfactory?

Two very well young women got on a downtown elevated train the other day at Fifth street. It was easy to see that they were "way up in the social scale." They took seats in one of the cross seats in the first car. The car was well filled. When the train stopped at the Forty-second street station the taller of the two young women said something to her companion which made her laugh. That laugh revealed a void where pearls teeth should be, and the chin was broken. It must have been the first time the young woman had laughed since she left her house. She changed color, clapped her hand to her mouth and startled the car by exclaiming:

"Oh, Lillian, I've forgotten my teeth!"

The two young women jumped up quickly and rushed out of the car just as the train was starting. Laughter rippled through the car all the way to the Battery. — N. Y. Herald.

Are You With It?

An opportunity to spend a few days in an delightful spot, North Weston, Tex., is offered by a special excursion to that point which will leave Wichita, Kan., April 12th, 1893. Remarkable inducements will be given to those who are desirous to visit the famous "Big Bend" and to Wright & Miller, agents, Wichita, Kan.

A Practical Boiler.

Mrs. T. J. Miller of this city, formerly of Edmond, Oklahoma, has invented a most perfect and useful boiler for broiling meats and toasting bread which is so constructed that the meat to be broiled is subjected to the influence of proper heat so that both sides are broiled evenly, resulting in searing the entire surface of the meat at once and hence retaining all the juices and therefore preserving the delicious flavor and tenderness of the meat which is not possible to fully preserve by the old process of broiling. As soon as Mrs. Miller's invention is perfected, it will fully convince of its practical use, and at once proceeded, through her attorney W.
J. Hutchins of this city, who devotes his entire time to the securing of patents for inventors, to secure protection for her invention. The patent has now been granted and she is informed by her attorney, will issue April 16th inst. and is now being put into operation.

The characteristic features of the boiler are, a sheet metal case or oven having a front vertically sliding door for gaining access thereto, and provided with a refrigerator for entering an opening made in any stove pipe for taking off the fumes caused by broiling, and two grates within the case upon which are placed live coals, or a charcoal fire, and between which grates the meat is placed, by holding it with a suitable broiling iron. The boiler is made in size to accommodate family, hotel and restaurant use.

Mrs. M. will soon place the boilers on the market and solicit a careful inspection of them by all who are interested in fine cooking.

Why Not Use the Best?

"There are numerous preparations in the market for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough. Among them we wish to call your special attention to Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is sold on its merits. This assertion is warranted by its sales, which surpass any preparation of a similar nature. It is not only sold by druggists from customers who have used it." The above is what Eugene P. Unanue, the leading druggist of Bethlehem, Pa., says in a circular to his customers. He has retail over one thousand bottles of this remedy during the past year and knows it to be without an equal. The praise that naturally follows its introduction and use is what makes it popular. For sale by Swickley, Penn.: We had an epidemic of cholera, as our physicians called it, in this place lately and I am glad to say with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I sold four dozen bottles of it in one week and have since sold nearly a gross. This Remedy did the work and was a big advertisement for me.

Several persons who had been troubled with diarrhoea for two or three days were cured by a few doses of this medicine.

ARSENICAL POISONING.

Its Danger in Our Homes from Curtains and Wall-Paper.

The danger through arsenical poisoning in our homes is not confined to the wall-papers, having been found often present in cretonnes and imitation Indian muslin in poisonous quantities.
A bad specimen of cretonne has yielded on analysis nineteen and a half grains of white arsenic, two and a half grains having been known to be a fatal dose.
Some months back a London doctor experimented upon forty-four samples of cretonne supplied by a local tradesman, not one of which was absolutely free from the poison; eleven of them were grouped by the analyst as "very bad" and nine as "distinctly dangerous." It is quite common occurrence to have pieces of these substances in a room containing sufficient arsenic to give one hundred people a fatal dose. A very popular impression has been that greens and blues are the dangerous colors, but the analyst declares that reds, browns and blacks are more dangerous still. With relation to this matter the following letter on arsenical poisoning through green candles was contributed to the Times in March, 1889, by Maj.
Leadbetter, chief constable of Denbighshire, and can not be too widely published:

"A curious case came under my notice lately which I think is of public value. A children's party and Christmas tree resulted in many of the little people and many of the older ones being seized with symptoms of mineral poisoning. The fact of several who were present who had not partaken of food or liquid of any kind being in the room, and the fact of the candles attracting attention to the colored candles on the tree. These I had examined by the county analyst, Mr. Lowe, of Chester, whose report is to the effect that the green candles were colored with arsenical green to the extent that every eight candles would contain one grain of arsenious anhydride. He further reports that the red candles were colored with vermilion. There is no doubt, therefore, that we have not further to seek for an explanation of the symptoms of a crowded room with the atmosphere charged with arsenical and mercurial fumes sufficiently accounting for it. It is only fair to state that I learn the candles were not of English manufacture and were bought with the toys."—Chambers' Journal.

A Good Shepherd.

An instance of Dr. Brooks' noble sympathy and great regard for the poor and distressed is told by Rev. Dr. Mc-Cormick, his devoted friend. A poor woman, living in the parish, was sick.
Dr. Brooks visited her frequently, and besides ministering to her spiritual needs, provided in a substantial way for her physical needs. One day the doctor found her more than usually pale and miserable in appearance.
Believing that outdoor exercise would benefit her, he advised her to go out in the air for recreation. She replied that she could not leave her sickly babe behind, and she was too weak to carry it. "Then go out for a while and I will mind the baby," urged the doctor. The grateful woman protested against such a seeming indignity to a clergyman, but he insisted, and while she enjoyed for several hours the sunlight and purer air of the park the great hearted, generous doctor, unmindful of his position as rector of a wealthy and fashionable church, sat in a dingy, meanly-furnished room in a back alley, rocking the cradle in which lay the poor little infant, until its mother's return. — N. Y. Press.

Exit Paddy.

Two Irishmen once visited a well-known penumbulating menagerie.

After completing the circuit of the show, they came to a slit in the canvas, with a bill printed above it in large letters, bearing the legend, "Hoggorra, Palt!" said one of them.
"Here's a place we musn't miss. I wonder what sort of a baste 'tis is!"

They followed the index-finger on the bill, and to their wonder and astonishment, next moment found themselves among the crowd outside.

"Och, bebad!" says Mick, shaking his fist at the man who barred his re-entrance: "ye're an old swindler, ye are. Bad luck to you and your old show!" — Yankee Blade.

Too Liberal.

Wife—Here's an advertisement in the paper that you'd better look into. It says a man is wanted, and he won't be worked to death, and he'll get paid enough to live on.

Husband—Says he won't be worked to death, eh?

"Yes, and they promise pay enough to live on."

"Well, some catch about that." — N.
Y. Weekly.

Won by Her Tongue.

McHearl—How long did you know your wife before we were married to her?

Murray Hill—Two days.

"Wasn't that rather a short acquaintance?"

"If you had heard my wife talk you wouldn't ask such questions. At the end of those two days I felt as though I had known her for five years." — Texas Settings.

Honesty Pays.

Jim—Honesty is the best policy after all.

Bill—How?

"Remember that dog I stole?"

"Yes."

"Well, I tried two hull days to sell him, and no one offered more'n a dollar.
So I went like a honest man, and givhim to the old lady who owned 'im, and she gaw me five dollars." — N. Y. Weekly.

Do not buy cheap imitations.

Why? Why is Strictly Pure White Lead the Best?

It will outlast all other paints, give a handsome finish, better protection to the wood, and the first cost will be less.
If Barytes and other adulterants of white lead are "just as good" as Strictly Pure White Lead, why are all the adulterated white leads always branded Pure, or

"Strictly Pure White Lead?"

This Barytes is a heavy white powder (ground stone), having the appearance of white lead, worthless as a paint, costing only about a cent a pound, and is only used to cheapen the mixture.
What shoddy is to cloth, Bary
